PEACE RULES AFTER REVOLT

Hostilities In Mexico Formally Brought to an End

NEWS OF AGREEMENT SPREAD

Insurgent Forces Will Not Be at Once Dispersed, as They Will Help to Suppress Any Disorders Which May Occur—Only Trouble Feared Is In Lower California—Rebels' Demands Granted

Juarez, Mex., May 23.—Tranquility reigns in northern Mexico for the first time in six months. Messages are being flashed over all wires and by courier to remote parts of the country announcing that a peace agreement has definitely ended the hostilities between the revolutionists and the federal government.

Judge Carbajal, the federal peace envoy, has prepared to depart for Mexico City, his mission here being accomplished after nearly four weeks of parleys. Francisco I. Madero, Jr., triumphant leader of the revolt, has received scores of congratulatory telegrams on the success of the movement he initiated. He will now await the resignation of President Diaz, starting for Mexico City within a week, when it is expected to become an established fact.

Though the peace agreement provides for the gradual dispersion of the troops, it is not believed any counter-revolts or disturbance will occur. The object of the gradual disbandment of the insurgents, it is explained, is to maintain for a short time a good fighting force by which to keep order among the small scattered bands who might feel inclined to disregard the peace agreement.

Trouble is anticipated with the rebels in Lower California. Though the rebels there have never been allied with the Madero movement, the rebel chiefs here will send envoys or messages to Lower California urging the acceptance of the conditions agreed upon here. Should they refuse, an armed expedition will be sent to subdue them. Madero in his victory feels that he will now be responsible for the restoration of complete tranquility and will attempt to demonstrate that if he is not in control of some of the bands, he at least can subjugate them.

Though the peace agreement covers only the principal points negotiated thus far, it practically records the concessions by the government of those demands which started on Nov. 20 the armed revolution in Mexico.

The actual signing of the agreement took place under most extraordinary circumstances at night on the steps of the custom house. When the peace commissioners arrived they found the door of the custom house locked and no one there to let them in. Accordingly they gathered on the steps of the building and while newspaper men held matches, fountain pens were produced and the document signed.

Four automobiles turned their headlights on the scene and when the signatures were affixed, the commissioners of both sides embraced joyfully. Judge Carbajal represented the federal government, and Vasquez Gomez, Francisco I. Madero and Pino Suarez acted for the revolutionists.

AMNESTY FOR MEXICANS

Measure Passed by Congress to Become Effective Immediately
Mexico City, May 24.—By an immense majority the chamber of deputies passed the bill providing amnesty to political prisoners. It becomes effective immediately.

Jorge V. Estanole, minister of the interior, presented to the chamber a report on the successful termination of the negotiations for peace, thus formally announcing to the body that the war is concluded.

SCHOFIELD IS PROMOTED

Named by President For United States Circuit Court Bench
Boston, May 25.—President Taft has announced the appointment of Justice William Schofield of the Massachusetts superior court to the first judicial circuit of the United States court. Schofield succeeds the late Judge Francis C. Lowell. He is a Republican and resides in Malden.

Judge Schofield has been for many years a close friend of Senator Crane. He was born in Dudley, Mass., Feb. 14, 1857.

Awful Toll of Lives by Fire
New York, May 24.—More than 20,000 lives and two billion dollars' worth of property have been sacrificed to fire in the United States during the past twelve years, said President Merrill in his annual address before the National Fire Protection association.

Stinson Assumes Office
Washington, May 22.—The transfer of the office of secretary of war from Mr. Dickinson to Henry L. Stinson of New York was made this morning.

LIFE IS CRUSHED OUT

Flagman Who Was Once Artist's Model Falls Under Steam Roller
Melrose, Mass., May 25.—Roslin Fish, 55 years old, for many years an artist's model for old men types, was crushed to death last evening under the wheels of a steam roller, before which he fell exhausted.

It was his first day's work in three weeks. Prematurely aged, unable to continue his work posing, the once-famous model had worked as a laborer for the street department of this city for three years. Three weeks ago he was compelled to quit work on account of increasing infirmities.

An easier job was found for him—carrying a red flag in front of the steam roller. At the end of the day, as he plodded along in front of the roller, he tripped or lagged, and the big front roller caught him, crushing out his life before the machine could be stopped.

Charles Marston, the engineer, who was arrested, was released without bonds, to be arraigned on the charge of manslaughter.

LEAVE MOTHER CHURCH

Minneapolis Christian Scientists Blame Board of Directors

Minneapolis, May 24.—A. E. Smith, C. D. S., of the Fourth Church of Christ, Scientist, here, gave the press a copy of a resolution adopted at a meeting of the church members by which the members decided to withdraw from the mother church of Boston.

The reasons given in the resolution are that "since the death of Mrs. Eddy the Christian Science board of directors has absolute authority to control the teaching," and that the board condemned Christian Science as taught by Abbott Smith, who was a personal student of Mrs. Eddy.

The statement also announces that similar action was taken by the Second Church of Christ, Scientist, of Duluth.

CULTURE OF ALFALFA BEING TRIED IN MAINE

Department of Agriculture Co-operates In the Experiment

Bangor, Me., May 24.—Through the co-operation of the Skowhegan Jersey creamery, the United States department of agriculture, local business men and farmers, a systematic and determined effort to induce the culture of alfalfa in Somerset county is being made this spring.

To those patrons who have signed the necessary agreement the creamery has donated 500 pounds of agricultural lime to correct any soil acidity on an experimental plot of one-fourth of an acre. The department of agriculture has promised the necessary seed, together with cultures of the nitrogen-gathering bacteria, and a local business man is taking a general oversight of the propaganda.

TIPPING OF BARBERS

Found to Have Driven Many Men to the Use of Self-Shavers

St. Louis, May 23.—A ban was placed on tipping at a mass meeting of bosses and journeymen barbers. The action comes as the result of investigation by the officials of the International Union of Journeymen Barbers of America.

Barbers have for some time complained because their patrons were joining the ranks of the self-shavers. The issue became so pronounced in St. Louis that the attention of the national association was called to it. And the answer comes back that tipping is the reason why men shave themselves.

Woonsocket Bank Merger
Providence, May 23.—The People's Savings bank of Woonsocket, incorporated in 1857, has been merged with the Woonsocket Institution for Savings, which was incorporated in 1845.

KILLS FRENCH WAR MINISTER

Monoplane Gets Beyond Control of Its Operator

PLUNGES INTO DIGNITARIES

Berteaux, Who Aspired to the Presidency, Is Badly Mangled, While Premier Monis and His Son Are Injured—Aviator and His Companion Escape Unhurt in Disaster at Start of Paris to Madrid Race

Paris, May 23.—France has paid another and terrible toll in her endeavor to attain supremacy in the art of aviation. A monoplane, the driver of which had lost control, plunged into a group of members of the cabinet who had gathered to witness the start of a race from Paris to Madrid, killing Henri M. Berteaux, the minister of war, and injuring Prime Minister Monis, his son, and Henri Deutsch de la Meurthe, a well known sportsman.

A large number of other persons of note had narrow escapes from harm. The accident occurred on the aviation field at Issy les Moulineux and was witnessed by 200,000 persons.

M. Train was piloting the monoplane. With him in the car was M. Roumier, a passenger. Neither was injured. The machine was wrecked.

Minister of War Berteaux was terribly mangled. The swiftly revolving propeller sheared off his left arm, which was found ten feet away from the spot where he was struck; the back of his head was crushed in, his throat was gashed and the whole of his left side was cut and lacerated.

Premier Monis was buried beneath the wreckage of the monoplane. He sustained compound fractures of two bones in the right leg, his nose was broken, his face badly contused, and there were bruises on the breast and abdomen. Deutsch and the younger Monis were not seriously hurt.

Premier Monis and Berteaux and their party arrived at the aviation field shortly after Garros, Beaumont and Gilbert had started in the race, which was headed in the direction of Angoulême, capital of the department of Charente.

The breeze had been steadily freshening and the meteorological observer in the Eiffel tower telephoned that his gauge showed a velocity of close to thirty miles an hour. The members of the aviation committee were discussing the adverse conditions as Train left the ground. Ascending swiftly he circled the great field, swooping around to the starting line and then flew down the course at a 40-mile-an-hour gait. The machine rocked as he did so in the gusty wind.

At this moment it was observed by the commandant of the troops that the crowds were breaking the line formation on one side of the field, and he dispatched a troop of cuirassiers to get them back in order. The cavalrymen galloped across the field, breaking into double lines as they went. Here Train's monoplane dived toward the earth under the impulse of an air flurry, and it appeared as though the aviator was about to collide with the horsemen.

The pilot's attention seemed momentarily to have been diverted from his course, and he made a quick turn to the left toward where the party of officials were standing. Then he lost control of the craft altogether and it dashed violently into the ministerial group.

The ministerial party was hidden from the pilot's view by a detachment of cuirassiers. In avoiding these Train crashed down upon the group like a bolt from the sky.

Henri M. Berteaux was one of the most prominent men in France engaged in political life. He had held the portfolio of minister of war once before, but though he relinquished this he had devoted himself to army affairs. He accepted that office again in the Monis cabinet, which was formed March 2 of this year. He acquired a fortune in finance, and it was no secret that he cherished the ambition of becoming a candidate for the presidency in 1913. His death is especially untimely for France, for with M. Crippel he was directing the present delicate Moroccan question, which is still far from settlement.

Warner and Ruth Mecum caught the sides of the overturned canoe and hung on until help from the launch Phyllis had arrived.

Mecum was a good swimmer and in all probability would have saved his fiancée had it not been that in her terror she grasped him around the neck and clung to him so firmly that he could not do anything.

17,723 CREDITORS LEFT IN THE LURCH

Receivers Given the Final $1000 of "Banking" Company

Boston, May 25.—One thousand dollars, all that remained of the assets in the hands of Receivers Hall and Weed after settling up the affairs of the Provident Securities and Banking company, have been ordered turned over to the receivers as a final payment for their services.

When the bank failed in 1908 there was on hand only $3500 cash to meet creditors' claims amounting to $274,000. No one of the 17,723 creditors ever received a single cent in dividends, although depositors in the department where little iron banks were provided as an inducement to save money for a rainy day alone lost $199,000.

IVERNIA IS BEACHED

Damage to Big Liner More Serious Than at First Supposed

Queensdown, May 25.—The Cunard steamer Ivernia, which struck Daunt's Rock in a fog, was beached last night, not far from where she had anchored and from where her 758 passengers were taken ashore.

It is feared that the big liner is more seriously damaged than was at first thought, water having penetrated three bulkheads instead of one as was first reported.

The first that was known of the accident was when the liner passed Roches Point at the head of Cork harbor. The fore part of the Ivernia was sunk deep in the water, her stern was high in the air, and she had a dangerous looking list to starboard.

"WITH COOK AT THE POLE"

Valet's Claim in a London Court Fails to Make a Hit

The magistrate declared, amid laughter, that he did not know that that was a testimonial of truthfulness, and dismissed the application.

BANKING LAWS MUST BE UPHELD

President Refuses Pardons to Morse and Walsh

WON'T SHORTEN SENTENCES

Business Methods of Both Men Are Scored in Long Opinion—Says Morse Realized More Keenly Than Did Walsh the Evil of What He Was Doing and Deserved Heavier Sentence Than Chicago Banker

Washington, May 25.—President Taft last night denied the applications for the pardon of Charles W. Morse of New York and John R. Walsh of Chicago, the two most prominent bankers ever convicted and sent to federal penitentiaries under the national banking laws. Not only did the president refuse to pardon either Morse or Walsh, but he also declined at this time to exercise any other sort of executive clemency in these cases or to shorten the sentences imposed upon the two men by the courts in which they were convicted.

In denying the pardons the president took a firm stand that the national banking laws or any other laws must be upheld when they affect the rich man, even more than when they affect the poor.

The record in the Walsh case, the president said, in a long opinion, "shows moral turpitude of that insidious and dangerous kind, to punish which the national banking laws were especially enacted."

In considering the case of Morse, the president said, "that from a consideration of the facts in each case, I have no doubt that Morse should have received a heavier sentence than Walsh. Indeed, the methods taken by Morse tend to show that more keenly than Walsh did he realize the evil of what he was doing."

In his opinion, in the Walsh case, the president protested against the failure to discriminate between legitimate business and improper gain. "The truth is," said he, "that in the mad rush for wealth in the last few decades, the lines between profit from legitimate business and improper gain from undue use of trust control over other people's property and money has sometimes been dimmed, and the interest of society requires that whenever opportunity offers, those charged with enforcement of the law should emphasize the distinction between honest business and dishonest breaches of trust."

The president's denial of the applications of Morse and Walsh for pardon does not mean that they must stay in prison until the end of their terms. Walsh began a sentence of five years in the Leavenworth penitentiary in January, 1910, and under the federal parole law is eligible for parole next September. The president's action has no bearing whatever upon future application for parole. Morse began his fifteen-year term in the Atlanta penitentiary in January, 1910, also.

In denying Morse's application, the president granted him leave to renew it after Jan. 1, 1913. Under the parole law Morse will be eligible for release in 1915.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Boardman Is Arraigned for Killing Monroe and Murray

Boston, May 24.—Arthur L. Boardman, accused of killing Arthur Monroe, a 19-year-old Boston Elevated conductor, and John Murray, 18, during a dispute over a 5-cent box of cigars in his store, was arraigned in the Charlestown court. He was held without bail for further hearing Friday.

The prisoner seemed not in the least disturbed by the charge against him and when the charge of murder was read and he was asked the usual question he said, clearly and firmly as if he were answering a casual question, "Not guilty."

$600,000 MORE FOR TECH

Generous Gift to Come From Trust Fund Created by Greene

Boston, May 25.—Another $600,000 gift to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology was announced yesterday afternoon by President MacLaurin. This made $1,600,000 which it had become known within twenty-four hours the institution is to receive.

The latest gift to Tech is a trust fund created by Francis B. Greene, who left a big bequest to Radcliffe college, but made no mention of the M. I. T. in his will. The Tech bequest trust fund had been created, however, by placing a big block of Clinton real estate trust stock in the hands of trustees under conditions that the institution should get its benefits after the death of beneficiaries of the income.

Tuesday the will of Mrs. Emma Rogers was filed for probate and it contains a bequest to Tech of about $50,000. The other $500,000 will come from T. C. Dupont, a Delaware millionaire.

IS READY FOR PEACE

Japan Willing to Take Up Proposed Treaty With United States

Tokio, May 25.—Japan is prepared to participate in negotiations for a general treaty of arbitration between the United States and this country, and is willing to submit proposals for such an agreement if invited.

Government leaders are deeply interested in the tentative draft of the arbitration proposal which the American government submitted to Great Britain and France. The proposal meets with hearty approval here.

It is the consensus of opinion that if negotiations looking to the participation of Japan with the United States, France and England, in the proposed arbitration treaty were successfully concluded, it would be an achievement of vast importance to the peace of the world.

DOUBLE SALARIES ARE TO BE CUT OFF

Bill Hits Numerous Employees at National Capitol

Washington, May 25.—Numerous government employees, especially those carried on the government rolls at the Capitol who draw two separate salaries from the government, are to be dismissed from the service under the terms of a provision to be carried in the legislative judicial and executive appropriation bill.

This has been decided upon by the house committee on appropriations and was prompted primarily by the discovery that, in addition to drawing $5000 as assistant secretary of the treasury, A. P. Andrews has been paid a very substantial sum as editor of the National Monetary Commission. While the contemplated limitation of the appropriations committee is aimed primarily at Andrew, it is stated that members of the committee have discovered that there are many men employed by the government who are drawing double salaries.

PEACE RULES AFTER REVOLT

Hostilities in Mexico Formally Brought to an End

NEWS OF AGREEMENT SPREAD

Insurgent Forces Will Not Be at Once Dispersed, as They Will Help to Suppress Any Disorders Which May Occur—Only Trouble Feared is in Lower California—Rebels' Demands Granted

Juarez, Mex., May 23.—Tranquility reigns in northern Mexico for the first time in six months. Messages are being flashed over all wires and by courier to remote parts of the country announcing that a peace agreement has definitely ended the hostilities between the revolutionists and the federal government.

Judge Carbajal, the federal peace envoy, has prepared to depart for Mexico City, his mission here being accomplished after nearly four weeks of parleys. Francisco I. Madero, Jr., triumphant leader of the revolution, has received scores of congratulatory telegrams on the success of the movement he initiated. He will now await the resignation of President Diaz, starting for Mexico City within a week, when it is expected to become an established fact.

Though the peace agreement provides for the gradual dispersion of the troops, it is not believed any counter-revolts or disturbance will occur. The object of the gradual disarmament of the insurgents, it is explained, is to maintain for a short time a good fighting force by which to keep order among the small scattered bands who might feel inclined to disregard the peace agreement.

Trouble is anticipated with the rebels in Lower California. Though the rebels there have never been allied with the Madero movement, the rebel chiefs here will send envoys or messages to Lower California urging the acceptance of the conditions agreed upon here. Should they refuse, an armed expedition will be sent to subdue them. Madero in his victory feels that he will now be responsible for the restoration of complete tranquility and will attempt to demonstrate that if he is not in control of some of the bands, he at least can subjugate them.

Though the peace agreement covers only the principal points negotiated thus far, it practically records the concessions by the government of those demands which started on Nov. 20 the armed revolution in Mexico.

The actual signing of the agreement took place under most extraordinary circumstances at night on the steps of the custom house. When the peace commissioners arrived they found the door of the custom house locked and no one there to let them in. Accordingly they gathered on the steps of the building and while newspaper men held matches, fountain pens were produced and the document signed.

Four automobiles turned their searchlights on the scene and when the signatures were affixed, the commissioners of both sides embraced joyfully. Judge Carbajal represented the federal government, and Vasquez Gomez, Francisco I. Madero and Pino Suarez acted for the revolutionists.

SCHOFIELD IS PROMOTED

Judge Schofield has been for many years a close friend of Senator Crane. He was born in Dudley, Mass., Feb. 14, 1857.

Awful Toll of Lives by Fire

LIFE IS CRUSHED OUT

Flagman Who Was Once Artist's Model Falls Under Steam Roller

Meirose, Mass., May 25.—Roslin Fish, 55 years old, for many years an artist's model for old men types, was crushed to death last evening under the wheels of a steam roller, before which he fell exhausted.

It was his first day's work in three weeks. Prematurely aged, unable to continue his work posing, the once-famous model had worked as a laborer for the street department of this city for three years. Three weeks ago he was compelled to quit work on account of increasing infirmities.

An easier job was found for him—carrying a red flag in front of the steam roller. At the end of the day, as he plodded along in front of the roller, he tripped or lagged, and the big front roller caught him, crushing out his life before the machine could be stopped.

Charles Marston, the engineer, who was arrested, was released without bonds, to be arraigned on the charge of manslaughter.

LEAVE MOTHER CHURCH

Minneapolis Christian Scientists Blame Board of Directors

Minnesota, May 24.—A. E. Smith, C. D. S., of the Fourth Church of Christ, Scientist, here, gave the press a copy of a resolution adopted at a meeting of the church members by which the members decided to withdraw from the mother church of Boston.

The reasons given in the resolution are that "since the death of Mrs. Eddy the Christian Science board of directors has absolute authority to control the teaching," and that the board condemned Christian Science as taught by Abbott Smith, who was a personal student of Mrs. Eddy.

The statement also announces that similar action was taken by the Second Church of Christ, Scientist, of Duluth.

CULTURE OF ALFALFA BEING TRIED IN MAINE

Department of Agriculture Co-operates in the Experiment

Bangor, Me., May 24.—Through the co-operation of the Skowhegan Jersey creamery, the United States department of agriculture, local business men and farmers, a systematic and determined effort to induce the culture of alfalfa in Somerset county is being made this spring.

To those patrons who have signed the necessary agreement the creamery has donated 500 pounds of agricultural lime to correct any soil acidity on an experimental plot of one-fourth of an acre. The department of agriculture has promised the necessary seed, together with cultures of the nitrogen-gathering bacteria, and a local business man is taking a general oversight of the propaganda.

TIPPING OF BARBERS

Found to Have Driven Many Men to the Use of Self-Shavers

St. Louis, May 23.—A ban was placed on tipping at a mass meeting of bosses and journeymen barbers. The action comes as the result of investigation by the officials of the International Union of Journeymen Barbers of America.

Barbers have for some time complained because their patrons were joining the ranks of the self-shavers. The issue became so pronounced in St. Louis that the attention of the national association was called to it. And the answer comes back that tipping is the reason why men shave themselves.

KILLS FRENCH WAR MINISTER

Monoplane Gets Beyond Control of Its Operator

PLUNGES INTO IGNITORIES

Berteaux, Who Aspired to the Presidency, Is Badly Mangled, While Premier Monis and His Son Are Injured—Aviator and His Companion Escape Unhurt in Disaster at Start of Paris to Madrid Race

Paris, May 25.—France has paid another and terrible toll in her endeavor to attain supremacy in the art of aviation. A monoplane, the driver of which had lost control, plunged into a group of members of the cabinet who had gathered to witness the start of a race from Paris to Madrid, killing Henri M. Berteaux, the minister of war, and injuring Prime Minister Monis, his son, and Henri Deutsch de la Meurthe, a well known sportsman. A large number of other persons of note had narrow escapes from harm. The accident occurred on the aviation field at Issy les Moulineux and was witnessed by 200,000 persons.

M. Train was piloting the monoplane. With him in the car was M. Monnier, a passenger. Neither was injured. The machine was wrecked. Minister of War Berteaux was terribly mangled. The swiftly revolving propeller sheared off his left arm, which was found ten feet away from the spot where he was struck; the back of his head was crushed in, his throat was gashed and the whole of his left side was cut and lacerated.

Premier Monis was buried beneath the wreckage of the monoplane. He sustained compound fractures of two bones in the right leg, his nose was broken, his face badly contused, and there were bruises on the breast and abdomen. Deutsch and the younger Monis were not seriously hurt.

Premier Monis and Berteaux and their party arrived at the aviation field shortly after Garros, Beaumont and Gilbert had started in the race, which was headed in the direction of Angoulême, capital of the department of Charente.

The breeze had been steadily freshening and the meteorological observer in the Eiffel tower telephoned that his gauge showed a velocity of close to thirty miles an hour. The members of the aviation committee were discussing the adverse conditions as Train left the ground. Ascending swiftly he circled the great field, swooping around to the starting line and then flew down the course at a 40-mile-an-hour gait. The machine rocked as he did so in the gusty wind. At this moment it was observed by the commandant of the troops that the crowds were breaking the line formation on one side of the field, and he dispatched a troop of cuirassiers to get them back in order. The cavalrymen galloped across the field, breaking into double lines as they went. Here Train's monoplane dived toward the earth under the impulse of an air flurry, and it appeared as though the aviator was about to collide with the horsemen.

The pilot's attention seemed momentarily to have been diverted from his course, and he made a quick turn to the left toward where the party of officials were standing. Then he lost control of the craft altogether and it dashed violently into the ministerial group.

The ministerial party was hidden from the pilot's view by a detachment of cuirassiers. In avoiding these Train crashed down upon the group like a bolt from the sky.

Henri M. Berteaux was one of the most prominent men in France engaged in political life. He had held the portfolio of minister of war once before, but though he relinquished this he had devoted himself to army affairs. He accepted that office again in the Monis cabinet, which was formed March 2 of this year. He acquired a fortune in finance, and it was no secret that he cherished the ambition of becoming a candidate for the presidency in 1913. His death is especially untimely for France, for with M. Cruppi he was directing the present delicate Moroccan question, which is still far from settlement.

Girl's Clasp Carries Down Fiance as Their Canoe Upsets

Springfield, Mass., May 22.—Elwyn R. Mecum, 22, and Anna Rooney, 23, both of this city, engaged to be married, were drowned in the Connecticut river Sunday afternoon when their canoe, in which were Mecum's sister Ruth, and Earl Warner, capsized.

Warner and Ruth Mecum caught the sides of the overturned canoe and hung on until help from the launch Phyllis had arrived.

Mecum was a good swimmer and in all probability would have saved his fiancée had it not been that in her terror she grasped him around the neck and clung to him so firmly that he could not do anything.

Receivers Given the Final $1000 of "Banking" Company

Boston, May 25.—One thousand dollars, all that remained of the assets in the hands of Receivers Hall and Weed after settling up the affairs of the Provident Securities and Banking company, have been ordered turned over to the receivers as a final payment for their services.

When the bank failed in 1908 there was on hand only $3500 cash to meet creditors' claims amounting to $274,000. No one of the 17,723 creditors ever received a single cent in dividends, although depositors in the department where little iron banks were provided as an inducement to save money for a rainy day alone lost $199,000.

IVERNIA IS BEACHED

Damage to Big Liner More Serious Than at First Supposed

Queensdown, May 25.—The Cunard steamer Ivernia, which struck Daunts Rock in a fog, was beached last night, not far from where she had anchored and from where her 758 passengers were taken ashore.

It is feared that the big liner is more seriously damaged than was at first thought, water having penetrated three bulkheads instead of one as was first reported.

The first that was known of the accident was when the liner passed Rothes Point at the head of Cork harbor. The fore part of the Ivernia was sunk deep in the water, her stern was high in the air, and she had a dangerous looking list to starboard.

Valet's Claim in a London Court Falls to Make a Hit

London, May 25.—When applying for reduction of bail on behalf of John P. The magistrate declared, amid laughter, that he did not know that that was a testimonial of truthfulness, and dismissed the application.

BANKING LAWS MUST BE UPHELD

President Refuses Pardons to Morse and Walsh

WON'T SHORTEN SENTENCES

Business Methods of Both Men Are Scored in Long Opinion—Says Morse Realized More Keenly Than Did Walsh the Evil of What He Was Doing and Deserved Heavier Sentence Than Chicago Banker

Washington, May 25.—President Taft last night denied the applications for the pardon of Charles W. Morse of New York and John R. Walsh of Chicago, the two most prominent bankers ever convicted and sent to federal penitentiaries under the national banking laws. Not only did the president refuse to pardon either Morse or Walsh, but he also declined at this time to exercise any other sort of executive clemency in these cases or to shorten the sentences imposed upon the two men by the courts in which they were convicted.

In denying the pardons the president took a firm stand that the national banking laws or any other laws must be upheld when they affect the rich man, even more than when they affect the poor.

The record in the Walsh case, the president said, in a long opinion, "shows moral turpitude of that insidious and dangerous kind, to punish which the national banking laws were especially enacted."

In considering the case of Morse, the president said, "that from a consideration of the facts in each case, I have no doubt that Morse should have received a heavier sentence than Walsh. Indeed, the methods taken by Morse tend to show that more keenly than Walsh did he realize the evil of what he was doing."

In his opinion, in the Walsh case, the president protested against the failure to discriminate between legitimate business and improper gain. "The truth is," said he, "that in the mad rush for wealth in the last few decades, the lines between profit from legitimate business and improper gain from undue use of trust control over other people's property and money has sometimes been dimmed, and the interest of society requires that whenever opportunity offers, those charged with enforcement of the law should emphasize the distinction between honest business and dishonest breaches of trust."

The president's denial of the applications of Morse and Walsh for pardon does not mean that they must stay in prison until the end of their terms. Walsh began a sentence of five years in the Leavenworth penitentiary in January, 1910, and under the federal parole law is eligible for parole next September. The president's action has no bearing whatever upon future application for parole. Morse began his fifteen-year term in the Atlanta penitentiary in January, 1910, also.

In denying Morse's application, the president granted him leave to renew it after Jan. 1, 1913. Under the parole law Morse will be eligible for release in 1915.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Boardman Is Arraigned For Killing Monroe and Murray

Boston, May 24.—Arthur L. Boardman, accused of killing Arthur Monroe, a 19-year-old Boston Elevated conductor, and John Murray, 18, during a dispute over a 5-cent box of cigars in his store, was arraigned in the Charlestown court. He was held without bail for further hearing Friday.

The prisoner seemed not in the least disturbed by the charge against him and when the charge of murder was read and he was asked the usual question he said, clearly and firmly as if he were answering a casual question, "Not guilty."

$600,000 MORE FOR TECH

Generous Gift to Come From Trust Fund Created by Greene

Boston, May 25.—Another $600,000 gift to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology was announced yesterday afternoon by President MacLaurin. This made $1,600,000 which it had become known within twenty-four hours the institution is to receive.

The latest gift to Tech is a trust fund created by Francis B. Greene, who left a big bequest to Radcliffe college, but made no mention of the M. I. T. in his will. The Tech bequest trust fund had been created, however, by placing a big block of Clinton real estate trust stock in the hands of trustees under conditions that the institution should get its benefits after the death of beneficiaries of the income.

Tuesday the will of Mrs. Emma Rogers was filed for probate and it contains a bequest to Tech of about $50,000. The other $500,000 will come from T. C. Dupont, a Delaware millionaire.

IS READY FOR PEACE

Japan Willing to Take Up Proposed Treaty With United States

Tokio, May 25.—Japan is prepared to participate in negotiations for a general treaty of arbitration between the United States and this country, and is willing to submit proposals for such an agreement if invited.

Government leaders are deeply interested in the tentative draft of the arbitration proposal which the American government submitted to Great Britain and France. The proposal meets with hearty approval here.

It is the consensus of opinion that if negotiations looking to the participation of Japan with the United States, France and England, in the proposed arbitration treaty were successfully concluded, it would be an achievement of vast importance to the peace of the world.

DOUBLE SALARIES

ARE TO BE CUT OFF

Bill Hits Numerous Employees at National Capitol

Washington, May 25.—Numerous government employees, especially those carried on the government rolls at the Capitol who draw two separate salaries from the government, are to be dismissed from the service under the terms of a provision to be carried in the legislative judicial and executive appropriation bill.

This has been decided upon by the house committee on appropriations and was prompted primarily by the discovery that, in addition to drawing $5000 as assistant secretary of the treasury, A. P. Andrews has been paid a very substantial sum as editor of the National Monetary Commission.

While the contemplated limitation of the appropriations committee is aimed primarily at Andrews, it is stated that members of the committee have discovered that there are many men employed by the government who are drawing double salaries.

Portland, Me., May 23.—Judge Connolly of the superior court was walking home from the court yesterday afternoon when a partly intoxicated man who was ahead of him without provocation kicked his bull terrier dog into the gutter.

Seizing the man by the shoulder the judge swung him around and gave him a blow under the chin which sent him to the sidewalk in a heap. Leaving the man's companions to attend to his needs, the judge proceeded home.

Memorial Day

One of the interesting efforts of the present day is that devoted by some of the more enthusiastic Sons of Veterans to bring into a more active interest, many of those who have not thus far shown any inclination to do the work that naturally belongs to those whose fathers fought in the War of the Rebellion. We publish today a second communication urging those in Andover, upon whom there is a claim for this sort of interest, to take a larger part in the work that has been so long carried on by the old veterans themselves. Both of these communications have expressed vigorously the need of more personal endeavor on the part of the young men, the responsibility and obligations upon those who have naturally inherited a love of country, and a larger enthusiasm for service because of the military experience of their forebears. This sort of agitation is needed not alone in Andover, but it is because of the need in Andover that we are particularly interested.

There will march in the procession next Tuesday, only a sprinkling of the old veterans who began to make this day memorable in the eyes of the present generation twenty to thirty years ago. Most of these men were then in vigorous and middle aged manhood. Many of them had passed through the reconstruction days following the war, into prominent business places in the community, and they were looked up to not alone because of their deeds of valor on the battlefield, but because of their return to successful walks in time of peace. Of this number, most have passed on. Those who are left, walk with feeble steps, and are now passing year by year farther into the shadow of active life and successful business achievement. Their places must be taken not alone in the work of Memorial Day, but in the wider fields of activity, to which are called today as never before men of vigor, of devotion to country. There is no more effective way to arouse men to a full appreciation of the duties of present day citizenship than through the memory of achievement in the past.

The most interesting phase of next Tuesday's parade in Andover will be that section of the procession carrying the banner of the Sons of Veterans. Through its numbers and its interests, it will show not only to the spectators, but to the veterans themselves, just how loyal and dependable is to be the organized force left, when the veterans themselves shall have finished the march and answered the final bugle call.

The Public and Public Service

The public has very naturally been considerably disturbed during the past week over the announced withdrawal of some trains from the Boston and Maine service. The announcement was quickly followed by the statement from the General Manager of the railroad that no such plans were contemplated and that instead the summer service would be greatly improved.

It is not surprising that the Boston and Maine Railroad should make every possible plan to curtail the expense of carrying on its business in the light of the reduced dividend, of the increased wage schedule, of the steadily advancing cost of that part of its service which cannot seemingly be lessened. The officials of the road owe this to the stockholders, for whatever may be said about public service, the stockholders cannot be entirely ignored.

We have never yet seen any justice in the prevalent custom that seems to be in control of so much of the present day public service. At this very moment in the Massachusetts legislature, legislation is pending that controls absolutely the labor market available for the conduct of the Boston and Maine railroad. Legislation is also pending that seeks to lower fares on the Boston and Maine railroad. Legislation is also pending that seeks to lessen the hours of labor, that seeks to increase the number of operatives, that positively deprives the road of all possible means of recouping itself for extra expenditure which would follow in all other lines of business in the shape of increased revenue.

We have reached in this country a position where something will break very soon unless there is a balance struck which can be understood by all people who are involved in these great business enterprises. It is not the money of the rich that is invested today in the stock of the Boston and Maine railroad. The large stockholders are the ones indeed whose names appear in print, whose votes are most sought, and whose ideas are most often quoted, but the great mass who are injured by the lower dividend rate or by any legislation that seeks to destroy the efficiency of this great public servant embraces men of small means, women of little knowledge, and the great masses whose savings in the state institutions are safeguarded by the investments of just such corporations as that which serves the Andover public. The public seems to forget too often how deeply involved the individuals are in all sides of that sort of public service which a railroad provides. The misinformation, and the demagogic appeals in the legislature and in public print, have seriously warped the viewpoint of the average men of the day, and unless there is an early awakening to the serious situation confronting every public service whose earnings are being lessened, whose expenses are being increased, whose return to stockholders must continually grow less, there will follow a disturbance to the industrial and business world that will spell disaster.

An Excellent Adjustment

Most things settle in time, and usually settle rather better because of a little more time taken in the settling. This is peculiarly true of the Town Clerk situation, which seemed to be considerably involved a week ago, but which is very much cleared up at the present time by the announced desire of the Selectmen, expressed through a temporary appointment, that Mr. Higgins, who has been in the town office for a number of years, shall fill that position. In working out this plan, Mr. Higgins sacrifices his position as Tax Collector, which by the way is a better paying position than that of Town Clerk.

Mr. Higgins will make an ideal Town Clerk, and there is no gainsaying the fact that many people will be rather pleased to have the two positions which he has occupied for several years, the work of which he has done very efficiently, separated. There is no law that serves to keep the offices of town Treasurer and Tax Collector separate, but there is a feeling, already expressed in many city governments and by the action of many towns, that these two financial offices should be held by different men, and Mr. Higgins does well in recognizing this feeling already more or less prevalent in Andover. The town is fortunate that it has one so familiar with the intricate, fussy things of the Town Clerk's office available to take up the work carried on for a long time so well by Town Clerk Putnam, and for many years more recently by the late Town Clerk Marland. Most towns keep their town clerks in office as long as they are willing to stay there, and Andover has been no exception. Mr. Higgins takes up the work at a time in life when it may be expected he will give many years of efficient and trained service to this important place, and this solution of the present problem, so far as the vacant clerkship is concerned, is an ideal one.

For Tax Collector, the field is wide open, and there are a number of excellent men named for the position. The place is an important one, but Andover is sure to choose a man who will give faithful devotion to his work, not less efficient than that which has marked the service of the long line of public servants who have occupied the place in years past.

Proving a Case

The writer has not had any regret over the failure of the town to purchase a fire truck at the last annual Town Meeting, but it would not be fair to those who believe the town needs a fire truck for him to entirely conceal the aroused interest which recent fires and happenings in Andover have caused him to have in this proposition. The matter is referred to at this time in the earnest hope that all the various incidents associated with the service of the fire department shall be of more interest to most of our citizens for this coming year than they have been heretofore. For example, when one sees the horses on the watering cart tearing down the street to the Engine House, hampered by a half-filled cart, practically exhausting themselves before they reach the starting place for the fire, it is not difficult to query whether there is not some better way of getting apparatus to a fire than that now in vogue in Andover. Again when the many forest fires, such as have marked the last two months, are analyzed, and the wasted energy is investigated and understood, a similar query arises. We still doubt whether or not Andover is ready for the large expenditure, both in initial cost and in maintenance, involved in the fire truck, but we are frank to say that it will not take many more such years as we are having this year to make up a lesson leading to the only possible answer that can be found in the purchase of some other form of conveyance for fire apparatus, than the easily tired four footed, and at the present time, overworked, water cart—street department—fire department—town horses.

W. H. Coleman not Town Clerk Candidate

Walter H. Coleman asks the Townsman to announce that he is not a candidate for town clerk.

Steamship Agency

The local agency for the more important European steamship lines, held for many years by the late Abraham Marland, has been placed in the hands of Barnett Rogers. The business is thus continued in efficient hands to assure the best of service.

Ryder and an address made by Rev. Dean A. Walker. After decorating the graves, barges will again be taken for G. A. R. Hall, where the comrades will be dismissed. Graves in the Chapel and Catholic cemeteries will be decorated by detachments leaving the hall at 6:30 a.m. Flowers designed for particular graves may be left on Monday afternoon or early Tuesday morning at the police station.

A cordial invitation is extended by the members of Gen. Wm. F. Bartlett Post, 99, to all soldiers and sailors, patriotic organizations and the public in general to join in the exercises of Memorial Day. All old soldiers, no matter of what organization, and all citizens who are interested, will be cordially welcomed.

In an endeavor to induce more children to take an interest in Memorial Day and all that it means, arrangements have been made to have details of boys and girls from the public schools decorate the graves in the South cemetery. A large chorus will also sing in the town hall.

Special exercises will be held in the schools on Monday afternoon. Details of veterans will visit the schools as follows: Punchard and Stowe, E. Kendall Jenkins, J. Warren Berry, James Saunders, Bradley, Joseph F. Lovejoy, Richardson, A. H. Fuller and Henry L. Clukey; West Centre, Mr. Jenkins and Mr. Berry. A delegation will also visit Indian Ridge school.

Obituary

JOHN PRAY

John Pray, aged sixty-five years, a former resident of Andover and well known by many of the townspeople, died last Monday night at a hospital in Somerville.

The deceased was born in Andover in the old Pray house recently razed when the new Barnard block was built. He conducted a livery stable here for some years. After leaving Andover, he made his home in North Conway, N. H. He was in town last July for several days during the dismantling of his old home.

The body was brought to Andover on Wednesday. Funeral services were held at the South church at two o'clock, in the afternoon and interment was in the South cemetery.

SPECIAL MEETING LIKELY

Mr. Higgins Resigns Collectorship and Will Run for Town Clerk

The following letters passing between the Selectmen and Town Treasurer Higgins indicate that the solution of the successor to Town Clerk Marland will be through a special town meeting.

Mr. Higgins has yielded to the advice of many friends and will, under the circumstances, resign his present place as Tax Collector and be a candidate for Town Clerk. While the question of a Tax Collector will thus be "up in the air," the filling of the very important place of Town Clerk would seem to be forecasted in a highly satisfactory manner.

Andover, Mass., May 22, 1911
To the Board of Selectmen, Andover, Mass.
Gentlemen:

Your favorable expression and temporary appointment, also the friendly suggestions of a large number of citizens, would indicate a desire that I shall serve as Town Clerk to succeed the late Abraham Marland.

Five years' experience in town affairs, as Collector and Treasurer, in which time I have also served as Town Clerk during Mr. Marland's several periods of illness, have, I feel, made me fairly familiar with the duties of that office, a fact which should prove of value for the best work in that department.

While my present work as Collector is enjoyable and I shall relinquish it with regret, I am aware of the growing sentiment among the citizens against having both financial positions of the town held by the same man.

For these reasons I decided to accept your temporary appointment as Town Clerk and at such time as is satisfactory to you, my resignation as Tax Collector will be placed in your hands.

Awaiting your further pleasure in the matter, I am,

Yours respectfully
GEORGE A. HIGGINS

Andover, Mass., May 25, 1911
Mr. Geo. A. Higgins:
Dear Sir:

The Selectmen are in receipt of your communication of May 22, and fully appreciate the statements therein contained. When we made the temporary appointment, we did so knowing full well your qualifications for the position of Town Clerk, derived from actual personal knowledge of the duties and requirements of this most important office. Should you, after careful consideration, finally decide to tender your resignation as Collector, the Selectmen will consider the advisability of calling a special Town Meeting to elect a Town Clerk and Collector.

An Appeal to Loyalty

To the Editor of The Townsman:

Dear Sir,
I want to make an appeal, through the columns of your paper, to every son of a veteran in the town of Andover. I have been informed, on good authority, that there are nearly two hundred sons in this town and yet the local camp Sons of Veterans shows only a membership of twenty-six. If such be the case it is painfully evident that the other one hundred and seventy-four, outside the camp, are not only shirking their duties and their responsibilities, but are not living up to their opportunities of service as well; and are making the sacrifices of their fathers void and of no effect by refusing to do their part in the great and glorious work which the Sons of Veterans are everywhere doing. As a son of a veteran, I ask you, are you so lost to a sense of honor to your fathers and of loyalty to your country, that you can and will allow yourselves to be forgetful of your filial duties to those veterans? Will you give over to aliens, the care of your fathers' graves, a right which pertaineth to you? Will you let the work of cherishing their deeds in song and story be delivered over to and handed down to those who know them not? Sons, cease this childish irresponsibility and indifference. Make yourself believe that upon you and you alone rests the burden of the success or failure in carrying on this grand and glorious work. I take this opportunity and means to urge every son to unite with the G. A. R. and the Sons of Veterans in the proper observance of this coming Memorial Day, by refraining from giving over this hallowed day to sports, games, and festivities, especially during the hour of the services. Would you play ball or go to a dance during the hour of your father's funeral, or during the hours subsequent thereto? Pause awhile, sons, and try to think what it all means and then there will come over you, such a sense of their loss, which is your gain and mine, as to entirely engulf all feelings of mirth and silly thoughtlessness on that day. I urge you to face into line with the G. A. R. and the local camp of Sons of Veterans. Your duty is there and you should be proud and consider it an honor to be pointed out as the son of a veteran. Thus by these acts will you give tangible evidence of your regard for the sacredness of the day and give to the "old guard" the assurance that not only are the sacrifices they made for their country and you not forgotten, but also that their memory and their graves will ever be kept fresh and green, not by aliens, but by their own sons, as a tribute of love, while time shall last.

And as you march behind these war-scarred veterans, to the stirring music of the band, you will feel a quickening in your veins that feeling of loyalty to the flag, finding expression in the heart-throbs keeping time to the martial music, and this feeling is the one and the same that was your sires' in the brave days of '61, since injected into your very veins through the inflexible laws of heredity. Do not let the excuse that you are not a member of the local camp, and so have not a uniform to wear deter you from your duty on that day. We do not want your clothes, but we do want you and the evidence that you are still loyal to your flag and the traditions of your fathers.

I trust that this appeal will not be in vain.
Yours in Fraternity, Charity and Loyalty,

GUY W. GILBERT

Patriotic Night at Grange

SUPERINTENDENT ELECTED

George M. Bemis of Wrentham Will Succeed S. C. Hutchinson. Miss Chase Resigns Position

At the special meeting of the school committee held on Wednesday evening in the committee rooms in the town house, a new superintendent of schools was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Sherburn C. Hutchinson, who goes next year to Montpelier, Vermont.

The successful candidate is George M. Bemis, superintendent of schools in Wrentham, Plainville and Norton. The committee in charge of filling the vacancy had over fifty applicants for the position, from which a choice could be made. Mr. Bemis came so highly recommended, however, that his election was unanimous.

The new superintendent is thirty-seven years of age, married, is a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, and a member of the I. O. O. F. He is a graduate of Yale in the class of '96, and has the title of A.B. from that college. He also took a course in supervision in the Harvard Summer School, and at the Hyannis State Normal Summer School.

For five years he was principal of the Michigan City (Ind.) high school. Following that he assumed the principalship of the high school in Chillicothe, Ohio. He remained there for two years. The following two years were spent in Brookfield as superintendent of schools in that town and also North Brookfield.

In 1905 he accepted the position he now fills and has done very satisfactory work there, being unanimously elected every year.

Mr. Bemis also has the special recommendation of Assistant Commissioner of Education, Mr. Orr.

In addition to the business of electing the new superintendent, various other matters of business were brought up at the committee meeting.

The resignation of Miss Anna E. Chase, for several years principal of the Stowe school, was presented and unanimously accepted. The school board voted to instruct the teachers' committee to secure a male teacher to fill the vacancy, have charge over the Stowe school, and eventually to assume supervision over all the center schools.

W. E. Lombard Surprised

If plenty of people, plenty of warmth, and a new house combined, equal a house-warming, there was a royally good one at the Baptist parsonage last Monday evening. Early in the evening Rev. W. E. Lombard was greeted by a happy crowd of his church people, old and young, from near and far, about fifty in all. After a time, P. F. Gilbert announced that the company had not gathered simply for a social time, but for a purpose. This was shown by the following verses, which were then read:

It's to show appreciation,
And the heartiest good will,
That we gather here about you,
In your new home near the mill.

From your home is ever going
Helpfulness in word and deed,
And your neighbor, having also
That fine spirit well to heed,

Rises up and tells to many,
Of her plan to bring surprise
Unto you her friend and pastor,
Something you will likely prize.

So, from out the many pockets
Comes a gladly given store,
If your people were but richer,
They would surely make it more.

Nothing now is stipulated,
As to how or what you buy,
Knowing you will spend it wisely,
We leave you the choice to try.

Whether aeroplane or cycle,
Or machine of other sort,
Whether books or costly pictures,
Or things measured by the quart,

Just be sure we wish you gladness
In your pretty home so fair,
Joy and peace and heavenly treasure,
May you one and all here share.

Dea. C. N. L. Stone followed with a neat speech for the occasion, and at its close he presented the pastor with four gold eagles, and three dollars in bills. No hint of the intended surprise had reached Mr. Lombard, and he was very much delighted with this hearty expression of appreciation. Thanking the company for this, he said also, "I am especially glad to have this larger home, so that more of you may come to see us, and I hope you will often avail yourselves of it, so that we may be able to serve you all, through this home."

Mrs. James May sang, and the young people clustered around the piano to sing hymns. The members of the Echo club, who have established their reputation for good spreads, served cake and icecream, truly a refreshment on this extremely warm evening. And all had a splendid time.

Organ Recital Tonight

The organ recital at the Free church last Friday evening, which had been anticipated with pleasure by so many, came to a rather unfortunate ending, when, after the first few bars of the first number on the program the organ refused to emit anything except sounds of a decidedly unmusical and unharmonious nature. The accident was due to a temporary trouble in one of the organ pipes, an occurrence which sometimes takes place in modern electrical organs.

The program as arranged for last week will be given this evening, however, and it is hoped that on this occasion those who attend will meet with no disappointment.

"Ladies' Night" at the Free Church

The Men's club of the Free church closed the season last Tuesday evening with a ladies' night in the vestry. There was a large gathering of their lady friends and a most delightful and inspiring concert program was rendered by a quartet of mixed voices from the Lawrence Street Congregational church, of Lawrence, and the popular and talented reader, Mrs. Haskell of Lowell.

The program consisted of quartets, duets, solos, and readings, and every number was encores and willingly responded to. Every member of the quartet is an artist, and rendered his or her numbers with distinction. They are Mrs. Lord, soprano; Miss Wainwright, alto; Mr. Ewart, tenor; and Mr. Wilkinson, baritone. Mrs. Haskell's readings were original, and proved to be most entertaining.

The committee of arrangements, Fred B. Goff, Charles W. Clark, and Roy Bradford, deserve great credit for the success of the entertainment.

Preceding the concert the annual meeting of the club was held in the Club rooms. After the reading of the annual reports by the treasurer and secretary, officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, John C. Angus; vice-president, Fred B. Goff; treasurer, Charles McDermitt; secretary, Jas. Anderson; auditor, Wm. C. Coutts. Executive committee, David S. Lindsay, Charles B. Baldwin, John W. Bell, Rev. Frederick A. Wilson.

Charles W. Clark, John B. McCrory and Alexander Dick were elected a committee on membership.

Fire at Draper Hall

A fire started on the roof of Draper Hall, Abbot Academy, at about ten o'clock on Sunday morning last, but with quick attention from inside the building and from the firemen outside, it lasted but a short time and did very little damage. The fire caught from a spark from a nearby chimney. Students and teachers fell into the fire-drill and used the chemical extinguishers effectually, showing their excellent discipline. It was most fortunate that the fire was seen from the attic room over which it started before it had made much headway, and that the household had not gone to church. This was an excellent opportunity to show the value of the new fire-alarm box on Draper Hall, which was rung in at once; of the chemical extinguishers kept in numbers in each building, and of the stand-pipes in Draper Hall which are according to the standard requirements.

Old and New Carriage Service

James H. Green, who has for many years been the popular driver for the Park street carriage service, has set up a depot service of his own and will cater to his old trade, henceforth as his own master. "Jimmy" is popular with the riding public and deservedly so, and his friends wish him all possible success in his personal venture. For a short time, telephone calls for his services can be made to the Phillips Inn.

Abbot Academy Notes

The basketball game with Bradford Academy was played on Saturday afternoon at Bradford. The score was 22 to 11 in favor of Abbot Academy.

On Tuesday evening, a dancing party was given in Davis Hall by Miss Means and the trustees of the Senior and Senior Middle classes.

A. O. U. W. Entertainment

Lincoln lodge, A. O. U. W., observed its twenty-fourth anniversary with an entertainment and dance held on Friday evening in their new hall in Barnard Block. There was a large attendance, the seating capacity of the hall being considerably overtaxed. Curran's orchestra of Lawrence furnished the music.

Among the guests of the evening were Bros. Clark and Jameson, grand officers, also D. D. G. M. Hart of Lawrence. In brief addresses the visitors congratulated Lincoln lodge on the attainment of its twenty-fourth anniversary, and set forth the aims of the order of Workmen.

The entertainment consisted of two interesting readings, delivered in a capable manner by Mrs. Florence Appleyard, and vocal selections by Mr. Cobbing and Miss Jennie Wilcox.

At the conclusion of the program the hall was cleared for dancing, and the young people enjoyed this pastime until twelve o'clock.

National Associations

Two of the large National Associations of the summer—the National Sunday School association and the National Educational association—will meet in San Francisco, the first in late June, the other in early July. These are the only associations that get one fare for the round trip. Some roads east of Chicago have not granted this, though New Englanders will have no trouble in going on that rate. This is the first time since the burning up of San Francisco that she has entertained a large convention, but she is now better equipped for it than ever before. San Francisco is the only city in which every hotel is absolutely new and up-to-date and in anticipation of the coming of all National Associations at no distant day there is a Convention League, composed of prominent men of affairs, who not only secure the adoption of that city as a convention point, but look after every detail of the arrangement so that visitors may see the most with the least effort. They secure written agreements with every hotel and restaurant that there shall be no advance in rates and that the visitors shall have as good as there is, as good as any guest can have, for the rates.

The railroads from Chicago to the coast work enthusiastically with the Convention League, giving the lowest possible rates, booming and boosting to the limit.

Not alone does the convention city exert itself, but every other city in the state joins in the campaign to offer the delegates every possible opportunity to know the state and enjoy all of its attractions. The railroads west of Chicago make two vital concessions, never made in the East, whereby delegates can go by one route and return by any other, with stopover privileges anywhere en route west of Chicago.

Eligible Sons of Veterans

Is it your duty to assist in the ceremonies of Memorial Day? Let me state a few facts. There are twenty-two hundred and seven (22,277) Sons of Veterans to decorate the graves in six (6) cemeteries; total number of graves three hundred and eleven (311). It is necessary to invite one hundred thirty-four (134) pupils of the public schools to do the work which the S. of V. should do.

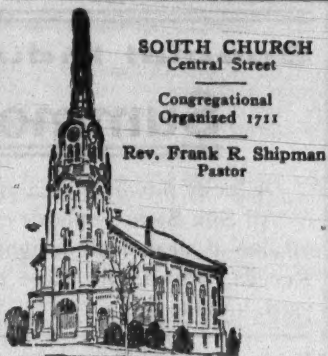

How about it, eligibles? What is your duty? Camp 111 hereby renews their invitation to you to participate with them in the service of Memorial Day.

Please report at G. A. R. hall at 7.30 a.m.

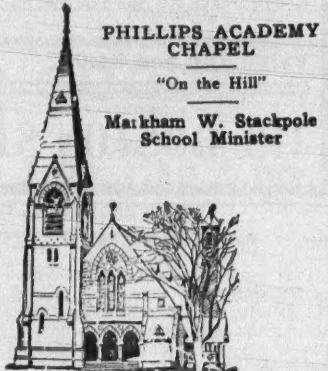

Yours in F. C. and L.,

JESSE S. BILLINGTON, Press Cor.

McDOUGALL'S MUSINGS

Eating and Drinking in France

Today I read in a Boston paper that we are advised to "scald" milk before using it. Every housewife in France scalds every pint of milk the moment she gets it from the milkman. She does not put the milk on the table and look in the glass to see if her back hair is in order, or wait to flirt with anyone until the milk is carefully heated—not boiled, but scalded.

The capacity for taking trouble along with a deal of gumption, accounts for the superiority of French cookery. The absurd notion that the French folks live on pastry and frogs and all kinds of dirty stuff is just as true as to say that they are ignorant because they speak French.

As I mentioned in a former letter, I lived over a dozen years in the country. During that time I had a chance to see what the eating and drinking was. If you dine in one of the big hotels in Boston or New York, or dine in a grand hotel in London, in Berlin or in Paris, there will not be much difference in the cuisine. The same is true as to the eating and drinking of rich people the world over.

On board one of the new ships crossing the Atlantic the cabin passengers dine, and Germans, Frenchmen and Russians, as well as the aristocratic Englishman and the newly made rich American are all pleased with the service.

What we call the common people of countries differ greatly in their modes of living. The Russian peasant is pleased with a piece of black rye bread and a bit of cheese. In Spain a bit of garlic and a drop of olive oil poured on the bread he eats seems to satisfy a Spaniard. In France an onion and a bit of goat's cheese, washed down with a glass of light beer or sour claret, satisfies. In Ireland, boiled potatoes and a drop of buttermilk does, while the Scottish ploughman, who has been brought up on oatmeal brose three times a day, and with the good milk he mixes with this brose, has muscle and bone and stamina. The English peasant likes fat pork, fat mutton, and ale. In Australia, tea, bread and mutton forms the chief food of the men on the prairie.

This country has so many immigrants that it is not easy to say what is the chief food of our working people. If I said that tea and coffee, spongy, sour bread and rancid butter formed the bulk of their cuisine, I would not be far astray.

But I was to speak of my experience as to French living. For two years I lived in a small hotel near the railroad station. There was accommodation for twenty pensionnaires; as they called lodgers or guests. The station-master, a lawyer, a linen merchant, the chief of police of the town, the justice of peace, several clerks in stores and people of that grade, we were a happy lot and no humbug as to caste or station in life (no snobs). I must not forget

Mr. Vagnair, the wit of the crew, whose English was superb. After the awful surrender at Sedan the call was for more soldiers, and the men who volunteered were called up and sworn in. Mr. Vagnair was one of them; he told me he had been to "dam" with all those "mans". I did not laugh as I knew he meant to say that he was sworn in with the other volunteers of the town. When I made awful mistakes trying to speak French, he never laughed, but tried to show me where I was in error.

Perhaps the best way to tell of the eating and drinking we had at this boarding-house will be to give a day's menu.

Breakfast—Coffee, cold ham, boiled eggs, sardines, fresh rolls, bread, butter and cheese.

Just let me say that everything was perfect of its kind. Coffee for breakfast in little bowls rather bigger than big coffee cups, no handles on them, no saucers under these bowls—made by mixing the coffee and milk. First the bowl is heated, then hot milk (we had heated cream) is poured into this bowl or big cup, fully one-third the quantity the vessel would hold, then the coffee, hot, strong and good, with a little chicory put in the pot. The French folks always put a pinch of chicory in their coffee. Many people use a big dessertspoon to sip this coffee with. This coffee is thick and smooth, just like cream. Along with the hot cream a whisked egg is added (if you wish), which gives a grand liquor.

The above description is for breakfast coffee, or coffee with milk, not black coffee which is served after dinner in small cups. Often a tablespoonful of brandy is added to this black coffee by many Frenchmen.

I am afraid that this letter will be too long if I go on to describe dinner and supper menus. Let me add here that the fresh rolls for breakfast and the French butter are so good that I heard a professional man from Andover say that it was worth the journey to France to taste the bread and butter you got at breakfast. No wine or beer was used at this early meal and no one asks for tea. I did not drink tea more than half a dozen times during my stay in the country. Some Scotch friends in Lille had tea as a treat at Christmas time. This breakfast was not served in the dining-room, and you could be served any time from 6 a.m. till 9. The south of France has different arrangements and use a lot of fruit and wines at breakfast, especially during the summer months. French folks use ten times the quantity of lettuce and salads of all kinds that we do here.

Keeping you a week waiting for our French dinner menu, and hoping your readers may have good appetites and good dinners so long as they read the Townsman and don't in any way interfere with good Standard salad oil!

IAN McDOUGALL.

THE WEEK'S SPORTS

Harvard Freshmen Defeated

Phillips Andover won another victory on Saturday afternoon when they defeated the Harvard Freshmen 9 to 1 on Soldiers Field. The Harvard team was badly out-batted. Andover tried out two pitchers, Mahan and Ripley. The Freshmen scored their one run in the fifth inning, Andover scoring two in the second, three in the third, one in the fourth and three more in the ninth. They were helped in this by numerous bases on balls and by two errors by the Harvard team. The lineup:

Alumni Defeated 5 to 3

The Phillips Academy team defeated a team composed of members of the Alumni, 5 to 3, on Brothers Field on Wednesday afternoon.

Wright, the catcher for the school team made a home run in the fourth inning, and was then forced to retire in the eighth with a broken finger, the result of one of B. H. Hayes' shots.

Penn. Freshmen Beaten

Andover defeated the Pennsylvania Freshmen, 5 to 0, last Friday afternoon on Brothers Field. The game was a battle between the two pitchers, Wardwell for Andover and Barr for the Freshmen. The former proved superior, although Andover succeeded in getting only four hits from Barr's pitching. Each one of the four counted, however, Mahan's two singles scoring three of Andover's runs. Two hits only and thirteen strikeouts went down in Wardwell's favor.

One of the features of the game was in the third inning, when Wardwell hit safely and was allowed to score when Peden, the Penn first baseman stopped the ball by throwing his glove in the air, and tagged his man. Umpire Jordan directed Wardwell to circle the three bases. Pennsylvania protested, but the run was allowed under the rule that a base-runner is entitled to three bases when the ball is stopped by a glove or cap.

The game was called off in the seventh inning owing to recitations. The summary:

Punchard Defeats Stoneham

The Punchard baseball nine handicapped by the loss of two of its best men, Collins and Sullivan, down on account of scholarship conditions, went to Stoneham on Wednesday afternoon where they inflicted defeat on the high school nine of that town, 5 to 4.

The game was an interesting one, and the victory was all the dearer to the supporters of the home team considering that it was won under such disadvantages. F. Boland pitched an excellent game for Punchard.

COLONIAL

"Dr. De Lux," a novel musical play, is at the Colonial. The piece is highly satisfactory, and contains many good songs which bid fair to become popular.

SHUBERT

Seldom has a new musical comedy met with such immediate favor as has the "Kiss Waltz," now at the Shubert. The "Kiss Waltz" is rich in costuming, light effects, and specialty numbers.

HOLLIS ST.

"Judy O'Hara," a play with an historical setting, plenty of action and dramatic climaxes, is pleasing the patrons at the Hollis St. theatre. The parts are all well played and the stay of "Judy O'Hara" is certain to be much enjoyed.

CASTLE SQUARE

Sheridan's brilliant comedy, "The Rivals," is being played at Castle Sq.
this week in a very capable manner.
The production is one of the best that has been seen in Boston for some time. Next week the attraction will be "A Gentleman from Mississippi."

Saw His Chance.

When all Westchester county was thrilling with the prospect of a railroad competition an agent of the new company that was to build went through Pelham Manor buying property for the right of way. He rang the doorbell of one resident, who was living in a rented house at $50 a month.

"Will you take $50,000 for this house?" demanded the agent.

"Oh, no, I couldn't," stammered the tenant.

"Will you take $5,000?"

"I couldn't do it."

"Well, think it over."

Mr. Tenant foxily runs around to the owner of the property and gets an agreement to sell him the property for $50,000 if he can raise the money.

The railroad's agent returns.

"Will you take $50,000?"

"No."

"Ten?"

"Yes."

"Done!"

Oh, yes, there is such a thing as luck when a man has the wits to see it coming his way.—New York Press.

Killing an Unfaithful Lover.

When a Japanese girl has been slighted by her lover she revenges herself according to the following quaint custom: In the dawn of the early morning she rises and puts on a white robe and white clogs. Round her neck she hangs a small mirror, which falls to her breast, and on her head she puts a metal crown with three points, each point bearing a lighted candle.
In her left hand she carries a small
represent her unfaithful lover—and this she nails to one of the sacred trees surrounding the family shrine. She then prays for the death of the man, vowing that if this comes to pass she will pull out the nails which are hurting the sacred tree and make of feelings to comfort her family god. Every night she comes to the shrine, strikes in two more nails and makes the same prayer, her idea being that the god, to save his tree from further injury, will kill her lover.

A Strange Species of Deer.

Just above the buffet in the dining room of a Richmond house there hangs a huge, finely mounted antlered head. This trophy of the owner's hunting prowess is fastened so firmly to the wall that the glistening neck seems to be coming right out through the plaster. When a little boy from the city saw this decoration for the first time he eyed it with considerable curiosity and very evident uneasiness.
It looked almost too lifelike for comfort. Finally the youngster asked to be excused and slipped from his chair, going into the next room. He returned to the dining room flushed with embarrassment.

"What's the matter, Harry?" asked his host.

"I wanted to see," explained the child sheepishly, "if that animal's legs were really as long as that or if he were standing on something in the next room."—Lippincott's.

A Clear Case.

The beautiful young prisoner entered the box in her own behalf.

"What is your age, miss?" asked the lawyer.

"Forty-eight," was the steady reply.

The feminine jury caught its breath with an audible little gasp and sat there rigid.

"How much did you pay for the hat
you are wearing?"

"Ninety-eight cents."

"Are you guilty of the crime that is charged against you?"

"No."

Thus did the wily prisoner attempt to establish her veracity and then convince the jury that she was innocent.
But don't forget that this was a jury of women. A verdict of incurable insanity was brought in.—New York Journal.

MAJESTIC

"The Man of the Hour" is being given by the Lindsay Morrison stock company at the Majestic, before large and enthusiastic audiences. The story of the play is too well known to need comment. Next week the play will be "The Warrens of Virginia."

TREMONT

The interest in the revival of "The Country Girl" at the Tremont theatre is unquestioned. The only regret concerning the piece that can be raised is that it can remain in Boston only one week. The chorus is excellently chosen, and the staging well attended to.

Walters, America's foremost playwright. This is probably Mr. Walter's best work, easily rivaling his other successes "Paid in Full" and
"The Easiest Way."

The scenes of the play are laid in the wild country of Northern Canada, and one may well imagine its characters to be of a sturdy manhood and of unlimited resourcefulness in their contention with the conditions surrounding them. The story tells of how an upright young Frenchman overcame the wiles and allurements of an evil seeking man toward a daughter of the forest, and the just punishment meted out to him.

How Old People
May Prolong
Their Lives

At advanced age the organs act more slowly than in youth. Circulation becomes poor, blood thin and watery, appetite fitful, and digestion weak. This condition leaves the system open to disease such as Coughs, Colds, Grippe, Pneumonia, Rheumatism, etc.

VINOL is the greatest health creator and body builder we know of for old people, as it supplies
the very elements needed to rebuild wasting tissue and replace weakness with strength.

HERE IS THE PROOF

A case is recorded in Albany, N. Y., of a woman who felt she was breaking down by age and was doomed to the weak and feeble condition of old people.
She had no strength and the slightest exertion tired her, but VINOL made her well and strong, and she states that she feels ten years younger than she did before taking VINOL.

We ask every aged person in this neighborhood to try a bottle of VINOL with the understanding that we will return their money if it does not prove beneficial.

Ballardvale will play their second game of the season on the playground next Saturday afternoon, their opponents being the Tremonts of Lawrence. Manager Trow has made some changes in the team that should greatly strengthen it.

The many Ballardvale friends of Mrs. A. E. Worman, the wife of the former well-known Methodist minister of the village, are sorry to hear of her death, May 16, at the Bellevue hospital, Buffalo, N. Y., after a long illness.

Ballardvale lost the opening game of the season Saturday with Harvard Knitting Mills team in a close and exciting game by a score of 6 to 5. The catching and general playing of Moody was one of the chief features of the game.

The Park Commissioners have put the playground in a fair condition, and the boys are making a good use of it. It is hoped that by another year something will be done to beautify the park and if a small amount is laid out each year it would soon become a credit to the village and town.

The many Ballardvale friends of Maynard E. S. Clemons, the town counsel of Wakefield, will be glad to learn of his notable victory secured for the town of Wakefield, whereby it secured a verdict of over $40,000 in the sewer case that has been pending in the courts eight years. Town Counsel Clemons has fought this case for the town without other legal aid, and he is entitled to considerable credit for his great victory.

The Bradlee Mothers' club entertained recently the children of the club at the kindergarten room. Ice cream and cake were served to 40 children. Games followed and a good social time was enjoyed by all. Refreshments were served by the following very efficient hospitality committee: Mrs. Harry Wells, Mrs. Holmes E. Bates, Mrs. William Matthews, Mrs. Thomas Wrigley, Mrs. William S. Clemons.

The death of Mrs. Maud (Holden) Kent of Lawrence was a severe blow to many people of the village as she had visited her grandmother, Mrs. Catherine Simpson, here many times and become acquainted and made friends of many Ballardvale young people. The funeral was held last Friday afternoon. Rev. George E. Lovejoy officiated. The floral tributes were numerous and very beautiful, and showed the high esteem in which she was held by her large circle of friends.

T. F. Morrissey Buys Stables

The Park street livery stables, formerly owned by W. H. Higgins, were held on Monday morning at public auction to Thomas F. Morrissey, the local stablekeeper. Mr. Morrissey's bid was $15,000.

Following the sale of the real estate, the horses, carriages, wagons, etc., were put up at auction. A large crowd was in attendance and the bidding was keen on several of the horses. A goodly number of out-of-town horse dealers were on hand. The auctioneer was C. F. Keyes of Lowell. So numerous were the articles that had to be auctioned off that the sale continued all Monday afternoon.

Mr. Morrissey, the new proprietor of the stables, has for some time conducted a livery business of his own with considerable success. His genial manner has won him many friends here, and they all join in wishing him the best of success in his extended and enlarged business.

"Ladies' Day" at Free Church

The Andover Association of Ministers held its annual Ladies' Day meeting with Rev. F. A. Wilson of the Free church last Tuesday, with the largest attendance for many years.

The morning exercises were held in the church parlors and consisted of a devotional service led by Rev. F. R. Shipman; business; a lecture by Rev. George F. Kengott of Lowell upon his last summer's visit to the Indian tribes of the United States as special agent to examine into their conditions and needs; two papers upon "The Minister's Wife" by Mrs. Herbert S. Mank of Lawrence and Mrs. Benjamin A. Willmott of Lowell, and a review of Chesterton's book, "What's Wrong with the World," by Rev. Sarah A. Dixon of Lowell.

At one o'clock a bounteous and attractive lunch was served in the church dining room by ladies of the Free church, in charge of Mrs. Henry A. Russell.

Through the kindness of friends in the South and Free churches, the ladies of the party were given an automobile ride about town until three o'clock, when the company re-assembled at the home of Mr. Wilson on Locke street, where the following musical program was rendered:

There will be dancing, interspersed by songs and readings. Open to Guild members and their friends. Admission to members, ten cents; to guests, fifteen cents.

Stone; for June 10: Mrs. E. A. Baldwin, Mrs. J. Tyler Kimball, Mrs. B. Frank Smith, and Mrs. Geo. Cann.

Some of our citizens may be interested in the story of Guild work during the past few years as told by the pictures to be seen in the window of Lowe's drug store. Our building and work are of much interest to the National Association for Boys' and Girls' clubs, as it is the only well-equipped building and definitely established work for the two lines under one management. The little exhibit has been prepared upon request of the National Association for the meetings to be held in Brookline June 5 to 7, in the interest of boys' clubs. The combined work is strongly recommended by the Association for towns and smaller cities.

Whitewash Brush in Spain.

In Spain, where the ruins of Moorish towers are seen upon the crests of many hills as the express train crawls along at the rate of fifteen or twenty miles an hour, the evidences of surviving Moorish influence upon the people and customs of Andalusia make an interesting study. In the city of Ronda it is plain that the ideas of home building, which the Arabs brought into the Iberian peninsula remain vital today. The whitewash brush is the great leveler of distinction between the rich and the poor in Spain. The exteriors of homes—great manor houses upon the haciendas, huts of mountaineers clinging to the sides of the almost perpendicular hills, handsome homes of rich merchants in the cities and humble tenements—are nearly all of plaster. A few of them are calcimined in blue or brown or pink, but the majority are pure white. Ronda is a white city with a few patches of blue and pink and looks as if the whitewash brush had just been applied.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Got Right Down to Business.

James Russell Lowell when ambassador to England contributed liberally to a London society and one day sent a deserving young American there to be assisted home. But the American was told that, though his case was eminently deserving, the society was just then short of funds.

When Lowell heard this he sat down and wrote the society a terse and vigorous letter.

"Dear sirs," he began, "for the last seven years I have contributed annually 25 guineas to your organization. I regret to learn you were unable to assist the young man I recommended to you a few days ago. If you will kindly return to me one of my contributions I will send him to America at my own expense, as I am convinced the case is a most deserving one."

The society did not return any of Mr. Lowell's cash, but it found means somehow to dispatch the young man home by the next boat.

She Could Threaten Too.

"Tickets," said the wiry little conductor as he confronted a 300 pound German woman.

"Ach! I haf lost my ticket vhat I should come back by voice."

Conductor—I am sorry, madam, but you will be obliged to pay your fare again.

Woman—Nein, nein. I paid you this morning already. I vill nicht.

Several times the conductor returned to reason with her, but each time was met with a more decided refusal than the last. Finally, losing patience, the conductor said:

"Madam, if you do not pay your fare at once I shall have to stop the train and put you off."

The woman, half rising and shaking her fist at him, said: "Vhat! Put me off, you say? Vhen you say dat some more by me I make you the train off and no stop it either."

A Waiter as a Tipper.

Two years ago a guest at a hotel in Frankfort-on-the-Main which has many American patrons became a prime favorite with the waiters in the dining room because of the lavish tips he gave to the man who served him, the boy who helped him on with his coat and the various other employees. Where old customers gave 50 pfennigs he would give a mark and more, besides extras in the way of cigars. In explanation he said one day that when he was at home in St. Louis he was a waiter, and being far away, he wanted to test the extravagant tip system. "And how does it work?" he was asked.

"Fine. The boys think me a fine gentleman, and I think they are fine waiters."—New York Tribune.
